December 15, 1971

Mr. Ken Bradfield, Marketing Manager and Mr. Chuck Shiels, Southeastern Regional Manager of Hahn, Inc. Agricultural Products Division present the game ball to Mr. Eldon Tucker, Kaiser Agricultural Chemicals of Statesboro, Georgia, winner of the "Most Valuable Sales Award", at the 20th Annual Agricultural Products Meeting held in Evansville on November 22nd and 23rd. The theme of this year's meeting was centered around pro football. The affair was kicked off at the 4-H Center with the presentation of our new line of Hahn Agricultural Products equipment. High scores were racked up with the all new Hi-Boy and the modified Ford-powered Go-Boy. Extra points were made with the stainless steel dry spreader and the pull type trailer.

The meeting was capped with an Award Banquet at the Executive Inn on Tuesday November 23rd and our guest speaker was, appropriately, Mr. Sam Ball, who was formerly with the Baltimore Colts.

"FAMILY NIGHT"

On the evening of November 15th Hahn, Inc. opened the doors to all employees and their families so that they could become more familiar with the products we manufacture as well as our plant layout. Employees were encouraged to take a plant tour and were given a guide sheet. More than half of our employees came to the open house and since it was so much fun, we feel sure that our attendance will be better next year.

President Lloyd Hahn and Union President Jesse Sharber provided movie entertainment in the plant lunchroom at 7:00 p.m. The movies illustrated our 1972 product lines. Comments were overheard such as "So that's a Greensmower".

Free refreshments were served during the plant tour. Attendance prizes, balloons and bags of candy were provided by H.E.A., UAW, and the Company. Winners of the attendance prizes are as follows:
